

WILL NOTICE TAFT

Iowa Republicans Will Indorse Administration in Broadly Qualified Resolution.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 1.—President Taft will not be ignored in the platform of the Republican state convention which will be held here next Wednesday. His administration will be indorsed, to quote roughly "in as far as it has carried out the pledges in the national platform of 1908."

This was determined upon at a snail's pace little meeting of leaders tonight. Among those present was "Joe" Lane of Davenport.

present in the second district on the party committee. This is said to mean that the majority report of the resolutions committee will fully represent the views of the insurgent senators, Cummins and Dolliver. Thus the convention in which the progressive majority is placed at 250 votes, will be spared the trouble of substituting a majority report for the adverse majority.

act of the insurgent delegation would be indorsed and that efforts for harmony would not go to the length of indorsing President Taft on matters where he and the progressive Republicans have been at variance.

CRIPPEN READY TO STAND TRIAL

Seem to Have Lost Hope.
A half hour before the landing the prisoners were told that they were nearing Cuckoo. Both had been ordered to the beach.

As they passed the stateroom which they had entered, formerly had occupied with, McCarty and Denis, Presently, Denis emerged from the cabin door with Crippen, whom he held by the arm as they passed both main cabins in a roundabout direction.

Both prisoners were so near to physical collapse that they scarcely glanced at each other. Miss Leneve tottered as she moved forward and hardly could have proceeded alone.

her hair, in which she had tucked the ends of the Auric. Owing to her hair heavy veil had been thrown. But she scarcely needed the veil to hide her features, for her head was so bent that no one could have seen her face.

Beauty Aroused Suspicion.

On the way over from Antwerp the face of Miss Leneve had appeared so pretty for that of a boy. A half hour after she had been placed in custody her features appeared to be rather those of not of the woman who had challenged the attention of two continents and believed the police were using a little bit of force to get her to pay attention to the crowd and so give them opportunity to remove the real prisoners with less inconvenience. The little procession had scarcely reached the foot of the gangplank when the pushing crowd pressed in around to find out why only after the police had charged that they were able to make a passage to the cab that was waiting just outside the pier shed.

On Way to Court Room.

When the officers found an opening, they half carried their charges to the carriage, pushed them inside and in another moment the vehicle was clattering along the wooden floor of the pier and out into the narrow street that led to the provincial buildings.

The door of the provincial jail stood open, awaiting its new guests, and the formalities necessary were quickly over. When the plot was laid out before the terrorist which he and his typist had occupied on the Montrose, Mord consideration was shown to Miss Levee. She was given a large and comfortable room, with a bed and a dressing room. This room had been fitted up for the occupation of a scrubwoman employed in the jail. It was at the request of this humble servant of the public that this room, better than any other in the prison, was given to the little woman who for love of a man has found herself a fugitive from justice. The act appears to be typical of the feeling prevailing in almost all larger parts of the Empire to populate the world. The public refuses to put the woman in the same

Early today throngs gathered outside the jail in anticipation of the appearance of the prisoners in court. Next to the accused the object of the greatest public attention is Inspector Dew. The latter wore an air this morning not noticeable before. The successful conclusion of his mission has put a new light in his face. Nevertheless the Scotland Yard man knows that a great responsibility still

Just how much Crippen knows of the case against him is in doubt. Whether he has learned that the British authorities have been told that a woman named Eliza Crippen was found in the cellar of his Hillroad Crescent home as that of him, actress wife is not known. Without such identification, the lawyers say a conviction may be impossible.

Dew has said that Crippen was a coward and that he had been beaten by his wife about Crippen before he was killed.

Crippen was very wary in his talks with me. Several times I conversed with him in the cabin. He would not ask me no questions that would excite his suspicions. Up to the hour of his arrest I believe that he did not know that I was a reporter.

There are many today who believe Crippen was taken less by surprise than he was. They think he had used all his resources for escape had dwindled until he was nearly helpless. He had a railroad ticket for Detroit, but only $10 in his pocket.

Extending and laying sewer lateral of vitrified pipe, 18 inches in diameter, in Church street, connecting with the Gravity Outlet sewer on Fifth South

Miss Leneve seated him at the table and told Crrippen had asked for two seats at the captain's table and that she had refused, so that no one could sit beside Miss Leneve other than himself. "My boy is a little deaf," he told her steward, and a friendly argument followed, during which he desired that she should prevent any passengers from engaging the girl in conversation.

Arthur Homer of Montreal, one of the few English-speaking passengers aboard, came perhaps in closer contact with the prisoner. Crippen usually sat in the cabin where Miss Leneve often talked together. When Miss Leneve was not present, although Crippen was careful not to reveal much of his past history.
